It would be unfair not to mention the selfless efforts of the teachers who have played an instrumental role in taking care of the School in the absence of the above mentioned teachers. Feeling gratitude and not expressing it is like wrapping a present and not giving it. It's the never ending efforts of the staff and the support staff that makes it possible to run the show.

Children are the most precious gift conferred upon mankind. They are the spirits of innocence, joy and eternal bliss and hence they are the core of all the happenings in the school. It wouldn't have been possible to end the year on such a high note without the support of parents. Believe us, it is not done yet. There is more to come.

Above all, we Thank the Almighty for showering his choicest blessings and being the guiding light in the journey of our lives at Krishna.
